Fundraising Guidelines

- This internship program is a position that is funded by support raising
- All monies raised are for the general internship program, though individual donors and churches may be contributing to that program for a specific intern
- All excess or leftover monies at the end of the year will be applied to future intern training at URC regardless of which candidate the monies were given for (URC is not allowed to refund charitable contributions)
- URC will train the approved candidates in fundraising after the hire date and before Feb 28
- Support requirements by June 30:
  - An intern must demonstrate the ability to raise support by having 50% of the support raising goal pledged
  - If the potential intern does not reach this goal by this date, they will be asked to withdraw from the program
- Support requirements by August 1:
  - All interns must have 100% of their support raised
  - All interns must have $10,000 of their support in their account before starting
  - If an intern has not reached 100% by this date, ExComm may allow for additional time
- Support raising funds must include donations from at least five different supporters
- If at any point with the year internship an intern's support falls below 90% or their support account balance drops below $1,500, the intern will be suspended from attending intern meetings and will be required to use this additional time to raise more support
- All fundraising communication to actual or potential supporters must include this language:

All contributions made to support University Reformed Church (URC) are tax deductible. To comply with IRS regulations, all donations go toward the overall financial support of URC, not an individual person. Donations made to URC on behalf of specific individuals cannot be returned if the individuals lose their financial connection to URC, and any gift amounts remaining will be used to further the ministry of URC. URC endeavors to use all gifts where intended, but has complete discretion and control over the use of all donated funds. The donor has not received any tangible goods or services for this contribution.
